(September 21, 2009 --Parkville, MO) Food, beer garden, wine, and live music will highlight the new Parktoberfest from 3p-9p on Saturday, October 10, in English Landing Park. Admission is free.

Organized by a group of caring residents, Parktoberfest was created to help raise funds toward a phased plan of capital improvements for English Landing Park.

Star 102; The Pitch; Parkville Luminary; and Miller's Landscape and Lawn Care will sponsor the event.

There will be an emphasis on local area vendors offering an array of foods; crafts; and services including onsite Tee-shirts printed by Uncommon Threads.

Participating restaurants include Piropo's; Cafe Cedar; and Agave.

Musical acts include Bob Harvey and Sharp Dressed Man.

A host of other activities and games included are Keg Bowling, and Speed-clocking pitches by the local police department. Raffles will feature products and services donated by merchants in and around the Parkville area.

Festival organizers report daily expansion of Parktoberfest as more area businesses sign on to support fundraising efforts directly or through in-kind donation toward the raffle fund-raising booth.

Parktoberfest is a grass-roots festival and staffed by volunteers interested in helping the city of Parkville continue to be a pleasant destination for both residents and visitors.
